“...the wisdom of the world is foolishness in the eyes of God...”

Are we convinced that everything belongs to us and we belong to Christ...?

Archbishop Gustavo in his TV show yesterday evening said powerful words about the critical situation we are facing within the Church. His words were: We can have all kind of laws and regulations but without our personal conversion it would be impossible to overcome any crisis in the Church. What does it mean? That conversion requires from us to change our NOUS to think and to act with the NOUS of Jesus.

Master, we have worked hard all night and have caught nothing, but at your command I will lower the nets...

At his command...

We need to fall at the knees of Jesus. We need to recognize that we are sinful men and women who need conversion then we can follow him. That is the true wisdom: Penitential openness (Pope Francis) and Conversion (Archbishop Gustavo). We need to be aware that God has my life in his hands. Everything depends on Him. Communion is required.

Recognition of my sinful condition. Then we can follow him.
