

Lectio for Mass

September 26 2018

Many times I have said that faith needs to be understood as Imitation of Jesus. First Christians understood that the Holy Spirit leads us to be like Him. The problem for us is two-fold:

1-We need to be convinced that we, as believers, need to be imitators of Christ.

2-How can we become his imitators?

In today's gospel, Jesus himself gives concrete teachings to his "Twelve".

Note: His teachings were given at the same time that they received power and authority... and He sent them to proclaim the Kingdom of god and to heal the sick:

- Take nothing
- Whatever house you enter stay there and have from there
- Be ready to go beyond not being welcomed by some people
- Be missionaries from village to village. Itinerants – pilgrims

Nothing is ours...

Even our mission is not ours...

We have been sent...
